Andrew Gunadie, aka gunnarolla, is an award-winning music & video producer who travels the world. He is the founder of content studio Gunnarolla Inc. and also a digital host & producer for Travel Channel & HGTV (USA)

Andrew has achieved international popularity as a host & producer thanks to his ability to create high-quality content that is both funny and thoughtful, evident in viral music videos such as Canadian, Please & The Comic Sans Song, and his various travelogue series produced around the world, from Japan to Egypt. Andrew is a master-of-all-trades, skilled both behind and in front of the camera.

As a producer, he has collaborated with many iconic brands to tell a diversity of stories. As a host, he has been the star of food & travel series for Hard Rock Café, Kellogg's and Tastemade. He is currently the producer & host of Travel Channel's digital series Nom Voyage, taking viewers on a culinary journey through cities, airports, festivals & theme parks, and Handmade Tested, where he attempts to complete craft projects as a non-crafter.

With millions of views on YouTube, a #1-selling album on iTunes, and the Digi Award for "Digital Personality of the Year", Andrew is a skilled and experienced producer, host, and storyteller: a trusted expert at creating high-quality, engaging, and authentic content. Andrew is more than a social media influencer—the impact that he has had on his viewers shows that he is truly influential.

Andrew currently resides in Toronto, Canada.
